

2020 - THE YEAR IN FASCIST & FAR- RIGHT EXTREMIST VIOLENCE

REPORT BY THE
HATE CRIMES RESEARCH PROJECT

ANTIFA
INTERNATIONAL

Introduction

2020 was the fourth year of the International Violent Hate Crimes Project. Established in 2017 by Antifa International, the Project aims to document and record as much violence committed by bigots, fascists, and the extreme right around the world. Over the course of 2020 we recorded:

- 152 shootings
- 27 arson attacks
- 88 stabbings
- 415 beatings
- 12 bombings
- 60 vehicle attacks
- 2 kidnappings
- 6 sexual assaults
- 2 kidnappings
- 1 acid attack
- 1 scalding
- and 46 thwarted terror plots

These attacks killed 325 people and injured 1186 others.

Definitions & Parameters

The two main parameters we had to contend with for this project were what would we consider to be “violence” and how we would decide if a violent act was motivated by bigotry, fascism, or far-right extremism. We have defined “violence” as any act that caused physical harm to a person; or any act in which included a credible threat of physical harm to a person; or any act in which it was likely that a person would suffer physical harm as a direct or indirect result (for example, an arson attack on an occupied building). This definition omitted acts of property damage and vandalism where people were not put into potential physical jeopardy as a result.

It is notoriously difficult to ascertain which acts of violence were motivated by an attacker’s bigotry, fascism, or involvement in far-right extremism. There is no consensus on how to do so. For our project, each case was examined under the same lens - using the anti-fascist slogan “respect existence or expect resistance” as a guide, we tried to determine as accurately as possible whether the target’s identity as part of, membership in, or activity in a group of people normally targeted by bigots, fascists, and the far right was the most likely motivation for the attack.

Essentially, for each incident we asked ourselves if the victim(s) would have been targeted for attack if they did not belong to such a group. In some cases, we considered whether it was reasonable to conclude that the attacker’s involvement in fascist/right-wing extremism would have led them to resort to violence instead of using other avenues that someone not involved in such extremism would have chosen - this was especially true for attacks against people close to the attacker (such as family members) or against other fascists, or against targets who did not fit into categories one would normally see as a potential target for hate-motivated violence. It is important to note that we excluded violent hate crimes committed by state actors (such as military or law enforcement agencies) from our data set.

Methodology

We monitored reports of violent hate crimes in several countries.

These reports came from the news media, advocacy organizations, and other sources. We compiled the reports into our chronology and map[1] on a weekly basis.

We would like to acknowledge the value of the research compiled by groups such as ProPublica, the Human Rights Campaign, Tell Mama, Mut Gegen Rechte Gewalt, Bell Tower News, factchecker.in, the Never Again Association, Transgender Europe, Luigi Mastrodonato, and the Trans Lives Matter project - all of whom did outstanding work documenting violent hate crimes around the world that proved extremely helpful to our own research.

Limitations

While we believe that this report is the most comprehensive chronicle of violent hate crimes worldwide in 2020, it is by no means anywhere near a complete listing of bigoted/fascist/far right violence and should not be taken as such. Instead, we believe it best serves as a sample of the level of violence committed nearly every single day last year - a snapshot of how serious the problem of hate-motivated violence is in the world today.

Because our research collective is small, under-funded, and run entirely by volunteers, we were limited to what stories we could find being published by news media and by advocacy organizations, which means that our data does not capture violent hate crimes that were not reported by either or that we simply did not come across. The scope of our research was further limited to sources written in languages we understood. Although we've improved in this regard since beginning our project, we still fail to document violent hate crimes in entire regions and countries that we are unfamiliar with and do not know the language(s) of.

There is no doubt that the 810 incidents of bigoted, fascist, and extreme-right violence we documented in 2020 are only a fraction of the number of incidents that happen every day around the world. It is our hope that by documenting and describing what our resources and limitations allow us to, the urgency of responding to this issue will be impossible to ignore.

Findings

Despite the COVID pandemic theoretically limiting interactions between people, we documented 810 incidents of bigoted, fascist, and extreme-right violence - a 39% increase over the number violent hate crimes we documented in 2019. This makes 2020 the worst year for fascist and far-right violence we've seen since we began this project in 2017.

The COVID-19 pandemic, in fact, may well be one of the reasons for the increase in bigoted violence in 2020. As Donald Trump and other fascists continued to push a narrative of blaming China for the pandemic, we saw attacks targeting Asians increase eightfold in 2020. In 37 of the attacks we documented between February and July 2020, the attackers explicitly mentioned the COVID-19 virus just before or while attacking their victims.

An outright pogrom against Muslims in Dehli, India was also a key reason for the increase in hate-motivated violence in 2020. From February 26-29, Hindu extremists burnt down mosques and Muslim-owned businesses and attacked Muslims on sight in a wave of acid attacks, mob beatings, stabbings, shootings, and arsons that left at least 43 Muslims dead and over 500 others injured. This was the single worst example of bigoted violence that we recorded in 2020.

A third reason for an increase in bigoted violence in 2020 was the extreme right's violent reaction to Black Lives Matter protests that took place in the wake of George Floyd's murder at the hands of Minneapolis police on May 25, 2020. Beginning with two separate vehicle attacks on a Black Lives Matter protest in Columbia, MO. on June 1st that injured two, we documented 54 attacks and attempted attacks on Black Lives Matter supporters in 2020 that left six people dead and 62 people injured. Other researchers have also noted the level of violence directed towards Black Lives Matter protestors in 2020, finding that the majority of violence at Black Lives Matter protests was directed at the protestors themselves.[2]

We noted an alarming increase in the use of more-lethal weapons in violent hate crimes in 2020. The number of shootings nearly doubled from 2019 and the number of car attacks (where vehicles were deliberately driven at pedestrians) tripled. Vehicle attacks, in fact, were up sixfold from the number we recorded in 2018. Despite this growing propensity to using increasingly-lethal weapons in 2020, the number of fatalities from violent hate crimes remained relatively stable; the 342 deaths we recorded in 2020 represented a 13% drop in the death toll in 2019, while the number of injuries we recorded (1186) was within 3% of the number recorded in 2019 (1163).

Who Was Targeted?

There was some good news: we counted 71% fewer attacks on Jewish people in 2020. One possibility for this was that in 2019, there were several horrific attacks on large gatherings of Jewish people. With COVID-19 restrictions in-place in varying degrees throughout 2020, there may have simply been fewer opportunities for anti-semites to commit large-casualty attacks on Jewish people. On the other hand, single-victim attacks on Jewish people also appeared to be down from 2019, especially in New York City, which in 2019 was the most dangerous place in the world to be Jewish (74% of all attacks on Jewish people happened in New York City that year). In 2020 we recorded a 97% drop in attacks on Jewish people in New York City.

Likewise, 2020 also saw a dramatic decrease in Christians being targeted for hate-motivated violence - down 95% from 2019. The explanation here is clearer: during Easter celebrations in 2019 the fascist group National Thowheed Jamath bombed several Christian churches in Sri Lanka, killing 253 people and injuring more than 500 others in an anomalous attack on Christians that skewed our count that year.

Findings cont'd.

Muslims, however, were not as fortunate, with a 44% increase in Muslims targeted for violence in 2020. That said, the overwhelming majority of Muslim victims of hate-motivated violence in 2020 were victims of the February 2020 pogrom in Dehli. It is our hope that an absence of Islamophobic mass violence in 2021 will lead to a corresponding drop in the numbers of Muslims targeted for violence.

Three other targeting trends stood out in 2020:

- As mentioned above, attacks on Asians increased nearly eightfold in 2020. This level of anti-Asian violence appears to be unprecedented in recent history and markedly impacted on the geography of hate crimes. For example, New York City's boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn swapped places, with Manhattan recording the most hate-motivated violence in 2020 and with half of those attacks targeting Asian people - the most anti-Asian violence seen in the city since we began this project in 2017.
- Attacks on anti-fascists appear to have quadrupled in 2020, but it is important to note that our definition of "anti-fascist" includes anyone willing to publicly stand up against fascism and bigotry - including people who intervened in fascist & far-right violence, becoming targets themselves. We also categorized Black Lives Matter activists threatened, injured, or killed in 2020 as antifa. BLM activists accounted for nearly a third of antifa targeted in 2020. Starting in 2021, we will be counting attacks on BLM activists separately from other anti-fascists.
- The amount of violence directed towards trans people, and particularly trans women of color, doubled in 2020. For the fourth year in a row, the people most likely to be killed in hate-motivated violence were trans women of color. We documented 66 hate-motivated murders of trans women in 2020. One in five people murdered in hate-motivated violence in 2020 was a trans woman.

Findings cont'd.

We documented 50 geographic areas that endured a disproportionate number of violent hate crimes in 2020.

For the third year running, New York City saw more hate-motivated violence than any other city in the world, with 31 attacks that we documented in 2020. This was more than six times the average number of hate-motivated violent incidents in any city or region with 3 or more such incidents occurring in 2020. As mentioned above, the violence shifted in that city, with the majority of the violence moving from Brooklyn to Manhattan in 2020 and targeting primarily Asians, whereas the majority of violence in New York in the previous three years was directed at the Jewish community.

The Greek island of Lesvos experienced the highest amount of hate-motivated violence relative to population (6 attacks per 100,000 population). All of those attacks - mob beatings and arsons - were directed at refugees, refugee housing, businesses employing refugees, medical personnel treating refugees, volunteers assisting refugees, and journalists covering the refugee situation.

The ten areas experiencing the highest levels of hate-motivated violence in 2020 were:

- Lesvos (6 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Salt Lake City, UT (2 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Minatitlán, Mexico (1.75 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Salem, OR (1.7 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Leipzig, Germany (1.4 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Richmond, VA (1.3 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Dresden, Germany (.9 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Portland, OR (.7 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Wroclaw, Poland (.6 incidents per 100,000pop.)
- Vancouver, Canada (.5 incidents per 100,000pop.)

January 2020

14 shootings

5 arsons

5 stabbings

26 beatings

2 thwarted terror attacks

22 KILLED 70 INJURED

January 1, 2020: Selena Peixoto, a 37-year-old transgender woman in Dilermando de Aguiar, Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, is shot to death in a drive-by shooting outside of her home.[1]

January 1, 2020: The body of 35-year-old trans woman Jennifer Ávila "Burbuja" Sumpala is found in the streets of Mazatenango, Suchitepéquez, Guatemala. She had been sexually abused, tortured, and stoned to death.[2]

January 3, 2020: 18-year-old Samuel Gulick walks up to the Newark, DE Planned Parenthood clinic, spray paints "DEUS VULT" on it, and then firebombs the clinic before running to his father's car and speeding away. Gulick, an active member of the white supremacist "groyper" online subculture, frequently posted Christian extremist, anti-gay, and anti-refugee content on social media, along with posts asking "when we will start shooting" the "genocidal demons" who provide access to abortions.[3]

January 3, 2020: 30-year-old Joshua Elbow is arrested and faces hate crimes charges stemming from four separate incidents where Elbow is alleged to have targeted gay men in Los Angeles shopping malls and restaurants and stabbed them.[4]

January 3, 2020: Two gay men and some friends are eating at a Greensboro, NC diner when five men come in, yell homophobic slurs at the group, and then attack them, throwing tables and chairs at them. Three of the attackers drag one of the gay men to the floor and start kicking and stomping him. When people intervene, one of the attackers pulls a knife and threatens to kill everyone in the diner. When police arrive, they let three of the five attackers go and arrest two on minor infractions.[5]

January 4, 2020: The Jerusalem District Attorney's Office filed an indictment against a far-right Jewish activist, charging him with attempting to carry out a hate attack in an Arab Israeli town. Dor Oved took a bus from his native town of Mevasseret Zion northwest of Jerusalem to the neighboring village of Abu Ghosh late on the night of January 4. A police car patrolling the area spotted Oved, who raised their suspicions as he tried to get rid of the knife in his possession. He was arrested at the scene.[6]

January 5, 2020: A 13-year-old boy, was punched in the stomach on a London bus by an attacker who shouted "you stupid Jews think you own the world." The incident took place late Sunday morning on a bus heading toward the Stamford Hill neighborhood of north London, which has a large haredi Orthodox Jewish population.[7]

January 5, 2020: A mob of armed & masked fascists from the ABVP, the student wing of the fascist militia RSS attacked Jawaharlal Nehru University in Delhi, India. The campus was smashed up and 39 students and lecturers were injured in the attack, including the president of the student union, Aishe Ghosh. JNU has been a center of a left wing intellectual movement for decades and recent protests against the Islamophobic citizenship amendment act, the occupation of Kashmir as well as fee hikes. The far right BJP president Amit Shah has repeatedly slandered feminists and communists at JNU as "anti national" and "urban Naxals." The police stepped back and failed to intervene and students have described the attacks as state orchestrated violence.[8]

January 19, 2020: 39-year-old Melissa Lovins, upon discovering the driver of her Middletown, OH. driver is Muslim, berates him with a series of Islamophobic and xenophobic slurs. "I'm an American and this is what I pay for all the time! Do you not realize that?" she said. "You're not from here, and I'll fuck you up!" She then assaults the driver.[1]

January 19, 2020: The body of 17-year-old trans girl Letícia Pereira de Oliveira is found inside a burlap sack, dumped in a vacant lot in Boa Vista, Brazil. She had been stabbed and strangled.[2]

January 20, 2020: A gay couple leaving a party in Oaxaca, Mexico are attacked by their taxi driver, who berates them with homophobic abuse and then summons a mob of local residents and other taxi drivers, who beat the couple and strip them.[3]

January 20, 2020: An 11-year-old Iraqi refugee girl and her little brother are confronted by four teenagers in Sebnitz, Germany, who shout racist abuse at them, then pull out a knife and chase them.[4]

January 21, 2020: After an antifascist demonstration in Essen-Steele, Germany, a boy was approached by an older man who asked him about his political stance. After the boy answered that he was an antifascist the man punched him in the face, saying that was lucky to be so young, otherwise it wouldn't have ended with just a punch.[5]

January 21, 2020: 27-year-old trans woman Shakira Pérez Méndez is tending bar in Chilpancingo, Mexico when two men burst in, shoot her dead in front of bar patrons, then flee.[6]

January 22, 2020: The unidentified body of a trans woman is found dumped beside a bridge in Robledo, Colombia. She had been stabbed to death.[7]

January 24, 2020: A transgender woman is waiting for a subway at Harlem's 155th street station when a couple approaches and demands to know if she is a man before spitting on her, slapping her, and slapping her phone to the ground.[8]

January 25, 2020: Philip Sexton, 54, has pleaded guilty to four charges of assault after his "unprovoked and nasty" public attack of a 22-year-old gay man, his boyfriend, and his mother as the families were celebrating the 22-year-old's birthday in Leeds, U.K. According to Sarah Liversidge, the mother, they were standing, talking, and smoking outside the restaurant before Sexton walked up, pushed Liversidge out of the way, and punched one of the gay men. In a surveillance video of the attack, Sexton punched the young man in the face outside of Gino D'Acampo, an Italian restaurant. He continued to attack the boyfriend and the mother when a waitress intervened. The waitress confronted Sexton to calm him down, but he then punched her in the face too. The waitress kicked back at Sexton in anger. As she began walking back into the restaurant, Sexton came up from behind and pulled her hair back in an attempt to drag her to the ground. However, Sexton was stopped by a group of passers-by who intervened to stop further violence.[9]

January 28, 2020: A black Mormon missionary is assaulted in Payson, Utah, by a group of six men. The man, who identified himself to police as a "black Panamanian," was with his missionary companion to teach a family in the area. "As he and his companion walked toward the house of the family they were going to teach, they encountered roughly six individuals. The group repeatedly called the missionary a racial slur "and told him to get out of their 'hood' and go back to where he came from," police wrote in the report. One man then took the victim's cellphone and threw it into the road, according to police. "The victim said that when he walked over to retrieve his phone, the suspects followed him and continued yelling racial slurs and swearing at him. The victim said that one of the suspects also said he was going to slit his mother's throat. He said that they were also mocking his religion because he was clearly identifiable as a missionary for his church by calling him a 'church boy' and telling him to leave their neighborhood," the affidavit states. The suspects did not at any point target the victim's companion, who is Caucasian," the affidavit states. The group eventually moved in and attacked the missionary, "punching him in the head and face, kicking him in the torso, and shoving him to the ground." [6]

February 19, 2020: 43-year-old Tobias Rathjen, a far-right conspiracy theorist who had made online posts calling for the "complete extermination of many races and cultures in our midst," goes on a shooting rampage in Hanau, Germany, killing nine people at a hookah bar, a nearby sports bar, and people in a car, before returning to his home, where he murders his own mother before committing suicide. All nine people plus six others injured in the attack "had foreign backgrounds." Before launching his murder spree, Rathjen had written online that "the following people must be completely exterminated: Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Libya, Egypt, Israel, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon, the complete Arabian Peninsula, Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Kazakhstan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and the Philippines."[2]

February 20, 2020: A 40-year old Chinese woman was attacked in the city centre of Torino, Italy. The 40-year-old was beaten by a couple, yelling "go away, Chinese! You have the virus!"[3]

February 20, 2020: An antifascist in Braga, Portugal, was attacked by around ten members of the fascist Escudo Identitário while getting into an Uber at the train station. A fight ensued, and one fascist tried to attack the antifascist with a knife. The attacker was thrown to the ground, falling on his own knife and being injured in the abdomen. After this the antifascist managed to get away in the Uber.[4]

February 20, 2020: 28-year-old trans woman Gabrielly Vanderguel is shot to death by two assailants who ride up to her on a motorcycle and shoot her several times before riding away.[5]

February 21, 2020: "Kill all n*gg*rs" 46-year-old Chad Brandon Phyfer said after trying to hit a black man passing him in Salt Lake City on a bicycle. Phyfer then pepper-sprayed the man. Minutes before, Phyfer had pepper-sprayed a gay man leaving the downtown library after calling him a homophobic slur. Phyfer faces hate crime charges for the assaults.[6]

February 21, 2020: 34-year-old Łukasz Klimkowicz is beaten to death by his neighbour in Łódź, Poland after Klimkowicz defended his gay brother from homophobic abuse an taunting by their neighbours.[7]

February 21, 2020: A transgender high school student in Alpine, TX is attacked by a fellow classmate. The victim said that even with video evidence, the student who threw the punches hasn't faced any consequences. He said the attack came out of nowhere and said the attacker first cussed at him, then turned violent, shoving and punching the victim several times in the face while two friends watched and laughed. "And he said it's because he didn't like me and he didn't like who I was, that I just pissed him off," he said.[8]

February 21, 2020: Police have issued a murder charge warrant for an ex-marine who stabbed a gay barista to death, despite releasing him from custody last week after he claimed he acted in self-defence. The victim, Kenneth Paterimos, 23, was involved in an argument with 30-year-old Thomas Tansey inside Richard's Bar, Chicago. Tansey was escorted outside by security but waited outside. As Paterimos left the bar, Tansey yelled homophobic slurs at him before stabbing him eight times with a boxcutter in his left ear, twice in his right arm, three times in the back of the head, once in the chest and once in the collarbone, killing him. The suspect was taken into police custody that night, but was released without charges after claiming the attack was in self-defence. Now, a no-bail arrest warrant on murder charges was issued for 30-year-old Thomas Hugh Tansey in connection with the fatal stabbing of Paterimos. Paterimos' mother, Diona Bueno, said: "You were handed the man on a silver platter, literally, in every way, shape or form. Oh, God, but you did nothing."[9]

As he reached for his phone to show them his bank statements, they began furiously cutting his face with a meat cleaver. "I felt the cold blade go straight into my forehead, my nose and my eyes," Stanislav said. As the perpetrators reportedly purged Joseph Stanislav's house, upending furniture and hurling homophobic insults at him, they searched for cash. "They asked for my money, then one of them went through my men's carry-bag and my medicine bag. Then one of them said: 'What's this? This is makeup you faggot!' "Then their eyes went black. Both their eyes went black. "[A suspect] told me to show him my bank statement. I had to reach for my phone to get the statement up, but when I reached for it the guy with the meat cleaver jumped and smashed me in the face. Then one of them held up the knife and said, 'Just do as you're told or we're going to cut your cock off. We'll make you into a real girl.'" Paramedics treated the victim at the scene before speeding him to St Vincent's Hospital. Forensic experts combed the property in a pursuit that led to the two men, 18-year-old Jay Ehrlrich and 21-year-old Thomas Bowen-Hughes, being arrested.[2]

March 19, 2020: The body of missing 24-year-old trans woman Rafhynha Pimenta is found dumped in an abandoned house in Arapiraca, Brazil. She had been tortured to death and then set on fire.[1]

March 20, 2020: In Bundaberg, Australia, a South Korean woman was viciously attacked by a group of six people after they demanded how long she had been in the country. The woman, 27, was left with facial injuries following the attack where she was repeatedly shoved to the ground. She tried to defend herself - but then the group began to beat her with their fists. She said the thugs told her to 'go back to your country' and asked if she had 'self-isolated for 14 days'.[2]

March 20, 2020: 22-year-old trans woman Paloma Pereira do Nascimento is shot & killed in the town of Caruaru, Brazil, having survived another murder attempt just two months before.[3]

March 21, 2020 Naperville, IL. police are looking for two women wanted for attacking a jogger last week in the west suburb. The two women threw a log at an Asian-American jogger.[4]

March 21, 2020: An 18-year-old Hispanic man in Burlington, WA is beaten nearly to death by 19-year-old Trevor McCabe. Police obtained five videos of the assault, including audio of the victim being subjected to taunts and racial slurs. At one point, while the victim lay on the ground having a seizure caused by blows to the head, the attacker continued to beat the teen by kicking him in the lower back. Salgado was seen going unconscious as the attacker slapped him in the face, threw water from a dog bowl on him and kept up the taunts.[5]

March 22, 2020: A 39-year-old Asian-American woman is taking out the garbage at her Borough Park, Brooklyn home when a stranger approaches her with a jar of acid and douses her with it, causing severe burns to her upper body, face, and hands.[6]

March 22, 2020: A man has been arrested in Salt Lake City for sexually assaulting a lesbian woman. The lesbian woman told police that Adam Quinn-Atwood was her friend's husband, and that she visited the couple on the evening of Sunday, March 22, in Salt Lake City. At some point during the night, her friend fell asleep and she said that Atwood began "touching and grabbing her". The victim repeatedly told him she was gay and wasn't attracted to men, in an attempt to get him to stop, but she said he "told her he was going to fix the gay". After horrific sexual abuse, the woman was able to escape.[7]

March 22, 2020: A 35-year-old trans woman is shot to death in her own home in Caruaru, Brazil by intruders, just two days after another trans woman was shot to death in the same town.[8]

March 24, 2020: Ali Zoabi says he was going to pick za'atar on his land at Khomesh, Palestine, with another villager, Asam, on March 24. "We didn't see them at first, but suddenly eight settlers who must have been hiding behind a rock appeared," says Asam. "I ran in one direction and Ali in another, but I could still see what happened." Ali says he fell while running away, and the group surrounded him and kicked him. A few minutes later a Palestinian car drove by and the assailants fled. Ali was taken to Jenin, where he was hospitalized for two days with injuries to his arms and legs.[1]

March 24, 2020: 25-year-old trans woman Naomi Nicole "La Soñaré" García is shot in the head and killed by two off-duty soldiers in Mexico City.[2]

March 25, 2020: Salt Lake City, UT. resident Scott Alexander jumps on top of a man of Middle Eastern descent in a grocery store, beating him in an unprovoked attack. Alexander tells arresting officers that he had a "vibe" that the man he attacked was "a terrorist."[3]

March 26, 2020: Arua Nasan and his cousin were on their way to pick akub, a wild plant popular in Palestinian dishes, at the Ein Samia spring, which is frequented by both settlers and Palestinians in the region. "We were on the main road when we saw three settlers on donkeys heading our way," he said. "When they came close to us they asked what we were doing here and said we're not allowed to come here." At this stage, one of the settlers phoned someone, he says. Within minutes two cars showed up from the direction of the settlement of Kochav Hashahar. Nasan's cousin doubled back to call for the help of a military vehicle they had seen nearby. One settler threw a hammer at Nasan, hitting him in the face, while the others beat him with metal rods, he says. At that point the military vehicle drove up and most of the youths got into a car and fled the scene. He was taken to hospital, where he was diagnosed with injuries to the jaw and shoulder. He was released several hours later and filed a complaint the following day with the police. "I want to see if they do anything about it – after all, if I had hit someone Jewish I'd be in prison now," he says. So far no one has spoken to him from the police. "If they do nothing I'll know the law doesn't protect me – not as a Palestinian or an Israeli – but as a human being," he says.[4]

March 26, 2020: A 42-year old man pretending to be a police officer approaches three Afghan immigrants sitting on a bench in Leipzig, Germany, telling them to keep distance because of corona. When they argue with him the man pulls a blank gun using tear gas cartridges and fires it three times at the young men, causing them painful eye-irritation and breathing trouble. The man is arrested.[5]

March 27, 2020: 21-year-old Erik J. Lewis of Downer's Grove, IL. is charged with hate crimes and aggravated battery after physically attacking a racialized security officer at a hospital while shouting racist slurs and threatening to "hang (him) from a tree." [6]

March 27, 2020 Two students, Michael Luna and Shane Stumpf, placed several coronavirus posters on an international Korean student's dormitory door in San Angelo, TX. When confronted, they fought and then Stumpf pulled out his gun on the Korean student. Police later found that Stumpf had a loaded Winchester 1300 12-gauge shotgun, 2 pocket knives along with a drawing of a KKK figure in front of a burning cross with the text, "I go for Jim Crow" and a Confederate flag in his room.[7]

April 4-6, 2020: Hindu fascists attacked a group of Muslims in Bengaluru, India while they were distributing relief material amid the Covid-19 lockdown in Bengaluru, India. Dr Taj, who was among the group that was attacked, alleged that the attackers were members of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh Hindu-nationalist group. Taj said four of her family members, including her son, and her son's friend were injured in the incident. "A leader said they will not allow us to distribute ration till the Health Department checked and cleared it as safe as they alleged that we were spreading virus deliberately," Taj said. On Monday April 6th when they were distributing rations, a group of six people, different from those who confronted them on April 4, allegedly attacked them with cricket bats. "Five of us are badly injured," Taj said. Taj says the assailants said: "Muslims are poisoning the rations, you people don't deliver food here, you Muslims have to leave the slum and relocate somewhere else." The wounded have been admitted to hospital in Shampur.[8]

11 shootings

7 stabbings

21 beatings

16 vehicle attacks

5 thwarted terror attacks

22 KILLED 44 INJURED

May 2020: A 22-year-old Axel F. of Hildesheim, Germany is arrested for planning attacks on Muslims, after writing of his plans in an online chat. Police found weapons and personal notes that indicated the planning of an attack in his apartment then charged him with the preparation of a serious act of violence endangering the state, the disturbance of the public peace through threats of criminal offences, sedition, insults and threats. Like many fascists he's also a pedophile: In 2017, Felix F. contacted a then 15-year-old under a false name on Facebook and sent her several pictures of his genitals. The girl tried to break off contact, but was threatened and insulted by the defendant. When the mother announced that she would call in the police, the defendant threatened that he would "kill her daughter with a knife, pour gasoline over her and set her on fire." [1]

May 2, 2020: A man shoots at two Ojibwe men as they spear-fish near Odanah, WI. [2]

May 3, 2020: Saying "hey Chinaman, you're infected! You need to move to a different car" and "I'm going to beat this Chinese n*gg*r up!" a man on the NYC subway attacks an Asian-American nurse and tries to force him off the train. [3]

May 3, 2020: 28-year-old trans woman Nina Pop is found stabbed to death in her Sikeston, MO. apartment. [4]

May 5, 2020: Two gunmen on a motorcycle shoot 35-year-old trans woman Jade de Jesus Santos aka Rubi Ferriera to death in the streets of Camaçari, Brazil. [5]

May 7, 2020: Armed gunmen break into the home of 22-year-old trans woman Fábia Oliveira da Silva and shoot her in her bed, killing her. [6]

May 8, 2020: The FBI arrest an Ohio 'Boogaloo Boi' for plotting ambush of police officers at a national park. The self-described "Boogaloo Boi" had a carefully laid-out plan: In order to spark an uprising that would lead to the imposition of martial law and thus the next civil war, he would ambush police officers responding to a fake domestic-violence call, who were to be stealthily surrounded by armed militiamen, "and the officers would have to put their pistols on the ground or get shot by the count of ten." He also "hoped we don't have to put them down, but I will do it if I have to." Christian Ferguson of Cleveland, Ohio, performed a "dry run" of his plan with a couple of men he thought were fellow militiamen at Cuyahoga National Park. The men, however, were informants, and later that day the FBI arrested Ferguson and charged him with plotting to kidnap or kill police officers in order to steal their equipment and draw attention to his budding militia, the "75th Spartans." [7]

June 4, 2020: A would-be incel terrorist, Cole Carini, 23, of Richlands, VA., is arrested after he blew off one hand and several fingers of the other hand, while making a bomb to target "hot cheerleaders." After being rushed to hospital, Carini told police he had suffered the injuries in a lawnmower accident at his home. A search of his home told a different story, as police found bomb making materials, including a box of nails.

"Adjacent to the nails on the floor was a blistered plastic container. The top of the container had been peeled back in a manner consistent with an explosion," Special Agent Neil Schimke wrote. "On the ceiling above the plastic container was a red substance believed to be blood splattered on the ceiling, along with a skin colored chunk believed to be flesh." An adjacent wall also appeared to be splattered with blood, the agent wrote. On the ground, investigators found a crumpled letter containing disturbing scenarios of revenge against women. Some of the statements included: "He casually walked through the shopping mall. His jacket concealed deadly objects.", "He had ... of tension that would come and go as he now approached the stage of hot cheerleaders.", "Even if he died, this statement was worth it!", "A dead seriousness sank in as he realized that he was truly passing the point of no return." "He decided, 'I will not back down. I will not be afraid of the consequences, no matter what. I will be heroic. I will make a statement like Elliot Rodgers did,' he thought to himself." [8]

June 13, 2020: Far-right hooligans rioted in London, attacking the few protesters who showed up to the cancelled Black Lives Matter event, journalists, random passers-by, and police. A large group of protesters abused people sitting having a picnic in Hyde Park. Video shared online shows the gang approach people gathered in the park for a picnic, before swearing at them, spitting, pushing and kicking them and forcing them to move. The incident came on the same afternoon that far-right groups clashed violently with police in central London, leading to the arrests of more than 100 people. "They were attacking anyone in their path. It could not have been LESS about statues or values or being British. It was shameful," a witness wrote. Some of the self-proclaimed "statue defenders" then started to attack riot police near the Houses of Parliament and Trafalgar Square. They launched objects including glass bottles, smoke grenades and flares at officers. As a result of the skirmishes, the London Ambulance Service said it treated 15 people for their injuries, including two members of the police.^[5]

June 13, 2020: Over a hundred people attack a Dalit community in Pokhari village in Uttar Pradesh, India. Several Dalits suffered serious injuries in the attack, and a police report was registered in the case on the same night. The report lists at least 29 accused, who have been identified by name. However, over two months later, not a single person has been arrested.^[6]

June 14, 2020: A small-town Black Lives Matter rally ends in chaos after some of Donald Trump's supporters showed up with guns to intimidate demonstrators. "Around 3:30, the... counterprotesters?, started walking down on the other side of the street from up town, yelling obscenities and threatening us," wrote demonstrator Abbi Remers, whose brother was punched and knocked to the ground." A few started coming over and ripping signs out of our hands, ripping the hats and masks off of our faces, ripping things out of our pockets. Then they started surrounding us." Police stood by as the protesters interfered with the demonstration, which ended up drawing up to 800 people, and demonstrators felt threatened by the armed group. Officials reported about 10 "minor scuffles" during the clash, but some social media users posted photos of injuries consistent with physical assaults.^[9]

June 28, 2020: A woman who snatched a Nazi flag from a home in Hunter, Oklahoma on a dare is shot four times by the Nazi home-owner as she walks away. The woman was rushed to the hospital and is expected to recover. The Nazi was arrested, and police recovered 14 firearms from this home.[1]

June 28, 2020: Jaquan Walker, 24, is working at the Washington Avenue branch of BurgerFi restaurant in Miami Beach when a table of men try to antagonise him, quickly descending into a homophobic brawl. "They tell me that I need to put bass in my voice," he told WSVN Miami. "They was saying [expletive]. They just said a whole bunch things. 'Oh, we're going to kill you. Oh, we'll beat you up. You're gay. You shouldn't be gay. How tall are you?'" Walker backed away, but when he returned to the dining area he says the men attacked. Video footage shows chairs being thrown at Walker. The men hurled him around the restaurant and threw him to the floor, beating and kicking him as he lies prone. Although the men instigated the fight, Walker was shocked to learn that he would be disciplined for it. "My boss fired me," he said. "It makes me feel bad. I come to work. I work. I mind my business. I don't mess with nobody. I was a good worker. I was always there on time. It's scary because you never know how far it can go." [2]

June 28, 2020: Shane Daum, 43, is attacked while camping at Crump Recreational Site in British Columbia, Canada. He was surrounded by the group of people, who said they knew he was gay because they had seen him shopping with his former boyfriend. "They were calling me a faggot, a paedophile," Daum told Global News. "I was surrounded and I started walking backwards. I looked to see where my dog was and they had him held. That's when I had my head turned and one guy hit me." He says he lost count of how many times he was struck while on the ground because he fell in and out of consciousness at least four times. A neighbouring camper eventually called the police and Daum was taken to hospital by ambulance.[3]

June 29, 2020: When a 12-year-old black boy on his way to buy snacks at the store sees a woman crying outside of the store, he stops to ask her if she needs any help. That is when 29-year-old Brendon Kruse runs up to the boy, grabs his bicycle so he can't leave, and begins screaming racial slurs at him, then shows the boy an SS tattoo, tells him he got it for "killing n*gg*rs," and threatens to murder the boy.[4]

June 29, 2020: While yelling racial slurs at a crowd of black people gathered in a Torrance, CA. hotel parking lot, 42-year-old Dennis Wyman gets in his car and plows through the crowd, hitting and injuring a 50-year-old off-duty security guard before fleeing.[5]

July 4, 2020: Monroe County, IN. human rights commissioner Vauhx Booker is attempting to attend a lunar eclipse event at Lake Monroe when a group of men with confederate flags, who had been blocking people from getting to the event and yelling "white power!" jump him from behind. The men pin Booker, who is black, to a tree, smashing him in the head and ripping out his hair. At one point one of the men yells "get a noose!" When Booker's friends noticed he had not returned to their campsite and went looking for him, Booker's attackers threaten them and steal one of their phones. After Booker gets away from his attackers he calls 911 and police take two hours to arrive.[1]

July 4, 2020: 33-year-old Allain Bernard chases another man into a Peterborough, Canada restaurant while yelling racial slurs at him. Bernard then throws a beverage can at the man's head, then picks up a table and smashes it against the restaurant's counter while yelling racial slurs at a restaurant employee, then flees.[2]

July 4, 2020: Two protesters are attacked with a hockey stick following a Black and Indigenous Lives Matter rally in Winnipeg, Canada. Theo Landry was peacefully protesting when a woman started hurling racial slurs at him and hit him with a hockey stick. In one video, a woman can be seen getting out of a sedan on Broadway at Hargrave Street and charging toward the pair of protesters with a hockey stick. A second video shows the hockey stick change hands with a second woman from the vehicle – before a second protester is hit in the head. Landry said the incident started a short time after the rally for Black and Indigenous Lives at the Manitoba Legislature came to an end. In an act of peaceful protest, Landry decided to lie down on Broadway for a moment in front of cars to draw attention to the cause and rally. That's when a woman and three other people inside the car began shouting at him, he said. "[She] started yelling slurs, racial slurs, spitting insults and saying our protests didn't mean much," Landry said. "She was very much offended by me stalling her time." [3]

July 4, 2020: Four teens charged over a hate crime attack and vandalism at Japanese restaurant in Edinburgh. Two 33-year-old men of Asian origin were left with injuries as a result of the incident at the Maki & Ramen restaurant. July 6, 2020: At least two protesters were struck by a vehicle toward the end of a protest in Bloomington, IN. Protesters had gathered to demand arrests following a weekend incident at Lake Monroe where several people pinned a man in an attempted lynching. "A woman driving the vehicle came up to the stop and had started revving her engine toward us and we tried to stop her and let her know that the crowd is clearing up just wait a second," Stewart said. "But, she and her passenger both wanted to go right away so they started to push, they pushed into the woman that was with me and when she pushed again both of us went on the vehicle." The man and woman remained on the vehicle until it turned abruptly, throwing both of them off and injuring both.[5]

July 7, 2020: A man pulled a knife and hurled homophobic slurs during a robbery in New York City, but was subsequently wrestled to the ground by the gay couple he attacked. Ricky Bellevue and Trevel Parrish approached gay couple Kelson Akomolafe and Edward Hoard and started shouting homophobic abuse at them. Bellevue allegedly called the couple "fucking faggots" and told them to "go back to your country" before pulling out a knife and demanding their belongings. "Now I'm going to rob you two faggots!" Bellevue shouted before attacking the men. The assailant proceeded to attack Akomolafe, and Parrish approached them from behind with a long silver blade, but Akomolafe started to struggle with his attacker, sustaining injuries to his face and hand in the process. The couple managed to fight off their attackers – and by the time five police officers arrived on the scene, they were restrained. However, their struggle didn't end there – police arrested Akomolafe too. "I was detained for the first time in my life. I was just lucky not to be shedding tears. After all of this, how can I have handcuffs on my hands?" He was later released, but the couple had to spend hours answering questions from police.[6]

July 25, 2020: A driver tries to drive his Jeep through a rally and march for justice for Elijah McClain in Aurora, Colorado. The Jeep narrowly missed fleeing protesters, causing one person to jump over the side of the highway breaking their ankle, before driving up to Aurora Police Department (APD) officers where the driver and his passenger, both white males, to have a cordial chat. As the Jeep began accelerating on I-225, Sebastian Sassi, who was in his white Ford F-150 parked at the back of the crowd, acted fast and positioned his car in such a way that caused the Jeep to crash into his vehicle slowing it down significantly. He spoke at a press conference Monday evening about the Jeep attack: "It looked to me like he intended to hit the crowd, he would have been going 60 miles an hour by the time he got to the crowd, he would have killed people. So I stopped him from doing that as best I could... Let's think about this guy, he was able to hit my vehicle, hit a jersey barrier, almost hit a bunch of people, flee the scene of an accident, run away, and then he was allowed to go about his business. Elijah McClain wasn't even allowed to walk home from the convenience store." [6]

July 25, 2020: A 20-year-old suspect is taken into custody on suspicion of involvement in stabbing a left-wing protester in the neck at the Sha'ar Hanegev junction in the south of Israel. The victim of the stabbing, Nir Sa'ar, a 40-year-old resident of Kibbutz Gevim, said he sustained superficial injuries after coming to the assistance of a friend who was being attacked. He described the scene as a "planned ambush," saying there were 15 attackers who assaulted him and two others.[7]

July 25, 2020: Garrett Foster, 28, was marching with other demonstrators during a protest in downtown Austin, Texas, in solidarity with the Black Lives Matter movement when he was shot by a man who had intentionally swerved his car around a blockade and then drove his car into the marching crowd. The attacker started firing out of his car and killed Foster. The Police Union spokesman wasted no time to blame the victim for getting shot, but it turns out the attacker is Daniel Perry, a 33-year-old active duty Army sergeant and Trump supporter who posted online about using 'deadly force' against 'the mobs' before the attack.[8]

August 1, 2020: Israeli police arrest a 16-year-old in Tel Aviv on suspicion that he took part in a violent attack on two young gay men in the Jaffa Port. One of the victims said they were attacked after getting off the jetty, "and these two guys started making faces. They seemed violent and the boat owner didn't want to let them on board... They started arguing with us, so we went to eat at the [nearby] Clock Square. While we were gone, they told the boat owner, 'We don't approve of gay Arabs, they're an embarrassment.' They said they would beat me and told him they're looking for me." When they later returned "about 20 people jumped on me and started beating me. I took out pepper spray and sprayed the entire can, so they ran away. Then the boat owner came and started pushing them away, until only the two seen in the video were left. "I pulled the victims out and put them into the private area of the port where the ships dock, because there is a fence there so I could protect them," recounts the boat-owner. "Two of the gang jumped over the fence and they began to hit and kick them."[9]

August 11, 2020: Two Palestinian engineers measuring land in the western part of Huwarah are confronted by four Israeli settlers, one carrying an M-16 rifle. Fearing an attack, the two started running towards Huwarah. The settlers gave chase, firing in the air, throwing stones at them, swearing at them and calling them to stop. Several stones hit Masri and he fell over, but the two managed to escape. When they reached a swimming pool on the outskirts of Huwarah, the pool staff called an ambulance for Masri, who was suffering severe pain in his leg and could barely stand. He was taken to Rafidia Hospital in Nablus, where he was treated and discharged.[5]

August 12, 2020: A Waco, Texas, woman is arrested and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and driving while intoxicated in an incident that motivated by the right-wing QAnon conspiracy theory. 30-year-old Cecilia Fulbright got behind the wheel of her car with the intent to “[save] a child” from “pedophiles, reportedly chasing two strangers’ vehicles in an apparent attempt to hit them. The first vehicle was a catering truck driven by a woman with her minor daughter in the passenger’s seat. They successfully evaded Fulbright before calling the police who were unable to locate Fulbright or her vehicle. Fulbright then targeted a second unrelated vehicle, a Dodge Caravan driven by a 19-year-old college student. Fulbright chased the student into a parking lot where she cornered and repeatedly rammed the Dodge Caravan. Responding police officers reportedly found Fulbright “crying hysterically” and yelling that the driver of the vehicle she attacked “was a pedophile and had kidnapped a girl for human trafficking.”[6]

August 12, 2020: Two men attack a young man because they believe he is gay, while yelling homophobic slurs at him. The men were filming their attack to share on a Belgian homophobic Telegram channel with over 600 members who share images and videos of LGBT+ people being humiliated and assaulted.[7]

August 13, 2020: Three Indian journalists are attacked by a Hindu mob while reporting on a story in New Delhi. The journalists and two colleagues were filming for The Caravan magazine in northeast Delhi, which was hit by religious violence in February. At least 53 people were killed in that violence, most of them Muslims. Singh, a writer at the Caravan, said Tantray and a female reporter were capturing a scene of a local street decked out with religious flags associated with Hindu far-right groups, when three to four men came out and started shouting. As a man kept asking for Tantray's name, Singh began calling Tantray by a Hindu name, “Sagar”. “Chalo Sagar yahan se’ (Let's go from here, Sagar),” Singh, who is a Sikh, told Tantray as he wanted to save him from the mob. “I could clearly see the hatred in their eyes, the communally frenzied eyes. I wore a turban as a Sikh and they were conscious of my religious identity, too. But their enemy was Shahid (Tantray), a Muslim,” Singh told Al Jazeera. “A BJP man shouted that he (Tantray) is a Muslim and started calling more people to the scene,” he said. Eventually the mob grew to more than a hundred people. “The mob beat me, punched on my neck and back, and tried to strangle me with the camera strap. I have pain in my neck as well as lower back since then.”[8]

September 4, 2020: 31-year-old Bryan E. Huff of Pocatello, ID. climbs the fence of a home displaying a Black Lives Matter sign, confronting the homeowners and a family friend in the backyard by unsheathing a sword and telling them "It's going down today," and that, "Today is the day of reckoning," and that he would return later that night before fleeing.[1]

September 4, 2020: A group of Kurdish harvest workers were attacked by Turkish racists in Sakarya, Turkey. "It all started when the owner of the plantation, Hacı Hüseyin Cebecioğlu, insulted us", explains Rojda Demir, who recorded the attack with her cell phone. A grandson of Cebecioğlu came up to us and told us to collect the hazelnuts at the entrance. While we were still talking to him, Cebecioğlu insulted us from his terrace as a 'pack of mutts.' We replied that we should not be subjected to such insults, put the buckets on the ground and left the plantation. After about ten minutes, as we had reached our accommodation, Hasan and Kenan Cebecioğlu, the two sons of the farmer, rushed towards us and shouted: 'How dare you leave the plantation? This is not Mardin, but Sakarya.' Shortly after that my cousins were severely beaten. When my 15-year-old cousin tried to intervene, she was slapped."[2]

October 23, 2020: Three nazis who had plans to kill Alicia Garza, one of the co-founders of the Black Lives Matter movement, are arrested on federal weapons charges. One, a porn actor, and two former Marines, one of whom was recently discharged from the service after being exposed as a white supremacist, were arrested for attempting to illegally sell untraceable guns. The nazis include Paul Kryscuk, 35, as well as two former Marines previously assigned to Camp Lejeune in Jacksonville, North Carolina: Liam Collins, 21, and Jordan Duncan, 25. On Sept. 11, the indictment stated, Collins and Kryscuk "knowingly transported and delivered" a firearm "from Idaho to Pennsylvania." The indictment states that a 9mm pistol and suppressor, which were not serialized, were seized on June 18 from an individual identified as "JH." Collins was among a trio of U.S. servicemen in 2019 who were found to have posted on the infamous Iron March message board, which the Southern Poverty Law Center describes as an "influential online gathering place for young neo-Nazis and neo-fascists." "I have a lot of Fascist friends in the Army," Collins wrote. "They say there are a lot of "Red-pilled" Soldiers due to the fact that major bases like Fort Bragg are infested with n*gg*rs." [9]

October 2020 cont'd.

October 30, 2020: The 100.000 strong march for women's rights and against the government's abortion ban in Warsaw, Poland, was attacked multiple times throughout the evening by neo-nazi hooligans and far-right Catholics, after calls to violence by the leader of the ruling party PiS. Attackers threw bottles, bricks and flares, several people were beaten, burnt by flares or pepper sprayed, but the attacks were mostly repelled by antifascists among the protesters. 35 far-right supporters were arrested by police, with weapons like extendable batons and knives being confiscated from the attackers. [1]

October 31, 2020 Far-right counter-protesters in Vancouver, WA. use bear mace on Black Lives Matter marchers holding a vigil for Kevin E. Peterson, who was murdered by police. Two of the far-right counter-protesters drove through the crowd and sprayed mace at protesters as they reached the intersection. Crowds responded by chasing the vehicle and throwing objects at it, breaking one window. The SUV stopped at Esther and 11th. Crowds surrounding the vehicle suddenly fled, yelling, "He's got a gun!" Two shots rang out soon after. A voice from the vehicle could be heard yelling, "Shoot them! Shoot the motherfuckers!" Luckily the shooter missed, and no one was injured or killed.[2]

October 31, 2020: The half-naked body of 25-year-old trans man Vicente González Lora is found dumped in a vacant lot in Los Rios, Chile. He had been raped and suffocated. Police arrested a 58-year-old man for the hate crime hours later.[3]

October 31, 2020: A caravan of Trump supporters surround a Biden campaign bus with their cars and attempt to force it off the highway outside of Austin, TX. Trump later celebrated the attack on Twitter, calling those involved "Patriots" who "Did Nothing Wrong". One Trump supporter rammed a car driven by a Biden staffer. The man behind the wheel of that truck, Eliazar Cisneros, has a long history of embracing political violence; posting on social media things like #AllLivesSplatter, #RunThemDown, and encouraging the murder of protesters with vehicles. In mid-September, Cisneros drove his truck through a group of Black Lives Matter protesters.[4]

October 31, 2020: Trans woman Samylla Marry Windson is shot in the streets of Praia de Iracema, Brazil. She dies in hospital two days later.[5]

The International Violent Hate Crimes project is a production of Antifa International - an international anti-fascist social media collective. Since 2014, Antifa International has broadcast news and information about anti-fascism and promoted the tenets of anti-fascism via social media to an audience of over 80,000 followers. You can find Antifa International on Instagram, Mastodon, Tumblr, Twitter, and YouTube.

In 2017, Antifa International began monitoring & documenting hate-motivated violence worldwide via The International Violent Hate Crimes project. We believe it to be the most globally-comprehensive research project of its kind. We do this work as volunteers and without funding, which limits our capabilities and the scope of our research.
